

The President's Scholarship Ball -- Photo Slideshow

Posted: December 8, 2012

Delaware State University raised money with elegance and class on Dec. 7 as it held its annual President's Scholarship Ball at Dover Downs.

About 400 people attended the sold-out event. "It was powerfully encouraging to see the generous support coming from alumni circles, our elected officials, the corporate and business sector, the community at-large, as well as University members," said DSU President Harry L. Williams. "And in a demonstration of students helping students, our Student Government Association used its own money to attend the event and provide support for scholarships."
