Local students win at the Delaware Valley Science Fairs

Oaks, Pennsylvania- April 4, 2012 – Students from Kent County have won major awards at the 65th annual Delaware Valley Science Fairs, held on April 3-4. Students Milford Middle School and William Henry Middle School were recognized for their outstanding student science research work as they competed against more than 1000 other students from the 3 state area that forms the Delaware Valley.

The students who were recognized by the DVSF Judging Teams were:
From: Milford Middle School: Joseph Dean - HM in Team Projects, Jordan Tribbett - HM in Team Projects, and Carson Rios - Honorable HM Mention in Team Projects; and from William Henry Middle School: Ashish D'Souza - HM in Engineering.

Nearly $3 million in scholarship and prize money were awarded at DVSF to students in grade 6-12. Top winners from DVSF are awarded a trip to compete at the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair (ISEF) in Phoenix, Arizona in May.

For a complete listing of specific awards won by our students, go to the Delaware Valley Science Fairs, Inc. website at: www.dvsf.org and click on the link of 2013 award winners.

Since 1949, the Delaware Valley Science Fairs have stimulated interest in science, technology engineering and mathematics(STEM) among middle and high school students in the tri-state region. DVSF’s philosophy is that students learn science by doing science. Its mission is to bring together parents, teachers and industry leaders to motivate and nurture young people’s curiosity in science and problem solving as we build lifelong learners.
